

This is a Day of New Beginnings says the Lord. A day that my spirit is moving in this house. A day when I will bring my people who have thought they were not going to get an opportunity to serve. I have had my hand upon you for good and not disappointment.

For those with different gifting... administration , healing , words of knowledge ,those who are called to the 5 fold it is time.

Time to submit yourself to my house and begin the adventure. There are married couples who've a desire to help those in need....My Spirit will begin even more intensely to minister to you in your prayer closet.....Look and See my people at each others gifts and calling....Look to the horizon and see me moving around you...your community , those on the left and on the right , those in front and those behind you ...you are a people who will effect others with my Spirit of this House...

For I will send you afar off , to bring My Spirit in this House to distant lands...For I am organizing those who have this desire right now....Pray and keep the flame of fire burning...

No longer shall you rely on titles but each other.

We must recognize our place of influence and begin to move.

For I am bringing down the walls of my people and opening up the world .

Yet, we need to be accountable, to be that influence that I will established in you..

Yet, I wait says the Lord ...It is time to rise up , It is time to shine , it is time for my movement to begin....
